

CAREER ROADMAP:

Performing Arts

Description of Field:

Performing arts includes dance, music, opera, theatre, spoken work and musical theatre. Related areas include songwriting and theatrical arts supporting performing artists. Fine arts include craft artists, multimedia artists and art directors. These can lead to an array of careers, from becoming a creative or visual artist, directing others about design, illustration, color theory, studio management, or portfolio management.

General Skills:

Fine and performing art skills may vary widely based on industry niches and organizational needs. Sample skills can include: creativity, self-discipline, patience, perseverance, coordination and confidence.

Insider Advice:

Utilize your network to gain experience and learn about new opportunities to volunteer, intern or participate in a variety of projects. Many employers do not recruit positions in the fine or performing arts so actively seeking out positions is critical. Working full-time in the performing arts takes dedication, and many individuals peruse multiple paths to support their passion for the arts.
